

Linda C. (Ramirez) Davila, age 65, of San Antonio passed away Friday, June 21st after battling Stage IV Kidney Cancer. She was born on September 8, 1953 in San Antonio, Texas to Margarita Estrada and Blas Ramirez. She married her childhood sweetheart, Ramiro Davila, on November 9, 1974.

Linda's family was started by marrying Ramiro. However, it was made complete by the birth of her grandchildren whom were the light of her life. She could always be found laughing, singing or dancing; and garnering attention with her infectious smile and personality. If she ever met a stranger, then they quickly would become a friend. She lived to be surrounded by her family and friends.

While saddened by her passing, she will continue to live in our hearts and memories as a beautiful person with an incredible smile and laugh, who never met a dance floor she didn't like.

Linda was preceded in her death by her mother, Margarita Estrada; father, Blas Ramirez; and brother, Edward Rodriguez.

She is survived by her husband Ramiro Davila, her daughter Stacie Davila, and her son Jason and his wife Amy Davila; her grandchildren, Sophia Davila, Cohen Davila and Gates Davila; her siblings, sister DeeDee (Edward) Toscano, sister Mary (Jerry) Verastegui, brother Paul (Beverly) Ramirez; sister-in-law Rita Rodriguez; cousins; many nieces and nephews; and friends from every stage of her life.
